

Digital Resources to Support African American Representation in Teaching and Learning

Digital Books

- Diverse BookFinder can help users "identify and explore multicultural books" to improve their collection.
- Book Dash is a free book publisher based in South Africa that provides hundreds of free digital books. The books not only represent different cultures and perspectives, but include different languages as well. Many of the books are available as audiobooks and work on multiple platforms.

Digital Teaching Materials

- National Education Association has compiled a list of lessons and resources to support African American representation.
- PBS provides some great resources for use in the classroom.
- The Center for Racial Justice in Education provides a wealth of resources and strategies for supporting African American representation in the classroom

Digital Images

- EDUimages by All4Ed is a free library of digital images with actual teachers and students in schools across America.
- The stock photo database nappy.co aims to "provide beautiful, high-res photos of black and brown people to startups, brands, agencies, and everyone else."

"Literature [and media] transforms human experience and reflects it back to us, and in that reflection we can see our own lives and experiences as part of the larger human experience."

- Dr. Rudine Sims Bishop,
"Mirrors, Windows, and Sliding Glass Doors"
